3. Public Hearing: Subdivision Plats

- a. Pladsen opens the Public Hearing regarding Subdivision Language stating the County needs to review how crop ground is being used for residential purposes. Runkle mentions that after a month of going back and forth on different options of increasing minimum acreage requirements or utilizing CSR, we landed on requiring a zoning change after the platting of more than 2 lots. Stating: Minor and Major Subdivisions which would great more than (2) residential lots of 3-acres each in an A-1, Agricultural District will require a zone change from A-1, agricultural District to R-1 Rural Residential District. Runkle states this has not been reviewed by the County Attorney. Scott Berg discusses his Eagle Ridge Development on Whalen Hill. Pladsen talks about the concerns regarding the limitations of Planning and Zoning without a required zoning change. Runkle states that she does not want to be too restrictive and wants to allow people to utilize their property as they wish with as little control as possible. Pladsen mentions that Bennett utilized the best ground in order to meet zoning needs of 3-acres, if we had smaller lots maybe it would not take up as much ag land. Laurie Moody mentions she, as County Sanitarian, is not in favor of smaller lots. Runkle asks for feedback on the zoning change idea, Berg points out many holes with it including the ability of neighbors to say what you can do with your property. Bresnahan mentions he felt Bennett used the best land. Berg mentions that he is not here to speak about the Bennett plat, but just because its good crop land should not take away the ability of the property owner to do what he wants with it. Pladsen agreed with Berg's comment, and supplied that all property owner's rights cannot be met all the time and we try to balance it. Runkle educated everyone about what happens to a subdivision plat from submission to Plat Review Committee to Planning and Zoning. Berg mentions to do the best for everyone involved. Pladsen mentions he thought the Bennett Plat was wasteful, but Iowa Code does not give much power to Planning and Zoning to have hep with approvals or denials. Severson mentions that she has worked with Bennett in the past and he did what everyone does, he subdivided and then sold the woods which is what most farmers have done. Berg quips with that not every acre needs to be farmed and we don't want to get to a point where people can't continue to grow and build homes. Benzing no matter size 3-acres don't work always, for selling off portions and the farm split would be a good idea. Runkle mentions to Benzing that we will be on that topic in a moment. Runkle says that you could put a conservation easement on your land so that it always stays solely for farming. Reiser says that the Bennett property had that and it didn't work, Runkle corrects him and says no the Bennett property was in an Ag Area, not a conservation easement. Reiser mentions that no farmer can compete with a developer. Severson replies that she has been selling property for the last 30 years in Allamakee County and knows more about valuation than anyone in the room and developers don't want to pay 20,000 an acre for farmland, developers want a deal, Scott Berg wants a deal. Farmers are the ones who bid out other farmers and pay 20,000 an acre, farmers are the reason farmland is so expensive. Berg adds that large corporations buying large of land tracts also raise costs per acre on ag land. Bresnahan mentions that better planning is needed before approval is granted. Pladsen mentions we were backed into a corner and state code does not allow us to do much more. Berg says maybe up the plat review group level. Severson asks at what point would we have stopped this? At what point would we have said no? Runkle mentions that the property development is up to the property owner and the surveyor, P and Z just makes sure it follows County regulation. Knight says what cost is it going to be to county to upkeep the road? Severson asks what is a county road good for if not to drive on. Wild asks who looked into the road issues? Runkle answers that the County Engineer has to take in road safety before he signs off on it.

Runkle mentions the idea of a Farmhouse split as many variances are being asked for this. Right now, the minimum is 3 acres and with a farm house split it would concern when an existing and active farm contains a home and the farmer wants to split his farm off with a minimum requirement of 1.5 acres and that it has to be ok'd and reviewed on-site by the county sanitarian. Language to go forward and agreed on by P and Z. Runkle addresses Kathy Renk and Eric Rud and states that what they want to do requires a variance and that Runkle will call them. Public hearing portion to move to March meeting.

4. Subdivision Plats

Westby, Jacqueline L - Discussion took place of the subdivision plat where 20.25 and 85.93 acres are being subdivided off the farm and being sold to son and grandson. Severson made a motion to approve the subdivision plat; Leppert seconded. MCU

Abrams, Micah and Kaitlyn-Discussion took place of the subdivision plat where .5 acres are being subdivided from 9.66 acres along Park Rd. Abrams previously received a Variance on June 14, 2022 for this split less than three acres. Leppert made a motion to approve the subdivision plat; Knight seconded. MCU
